

THE CENTRAL RECORD

FOURTEENTH YEAR.

LANCASTER, KY., FRIDAY, JANUARY 1 1904.

NUMBER 40

Of Local Interest.

Write it "1904."

The lake is holding like a jug.

The 1,000 feet of fire hose cost the town $700.

Turn her hose on the fellow who refuses to root for his town.

If the coal men are not rich by springtime, it will be their fault.

Misleading.

There is a man living over in Boyle county named Ritchie, but he isn't.

Mix a little glue into today's resolutions. Remember the "pie-crust" saying.

Good crowds were present at the several Christmas trees, and found much enjoyment.

Old Santa gave The Record office the "go by." He knew a country editor had no sock to hang up.

The cornice work on several buildings look very much like selves, since Friday night's bombardment.

Representative Gilbert introduced a bill to reimburse the Bryansville Methodist church, of Garrard county.

The merchants sold out closer this Christmas than they have in several years. The people had plenty money and spent it freely.

This is the day the saloons have a small trade. It happens every New Year, and the "barkeep" knows the boys will return, love, to him.

This is Nice.

Printed upon a remembrance sent to the editor last week, are the words, "May Dame Fortune ever smile upon you, and may you never meet her daughter, Mis fortune."

Court Day.

Fair size crowd in town Monday, but little stock on market. Many were busy settling up the year's business, and all seem fairly well pleased with the twelve months' work.

"Uncle Henry" Injured.

While switching at Richmond Friday, Uncle Henry Summers, the clever engineer on the day trains sprained his back, and was compelled to lay off. He is all right now, and his many friends are glad to see him pulling the throttle again.

A Big Hunt.

Mr J W Sweeney, the popular live-ryman, spent a few days last week hunting on his farm, in Casey county. He killed in two days' time, 125, while the party bagged many more. Jesse is not only a good hunter, but an all-around clever fellow.

Enjoyable Evening.

The "Milk Maid's Convention," given by some of Lancaster's prettiest young ladies, Tuesday evening, was enjoyed by a large audience. The local "hits" were fine, and brought forth much merriment. A neat sum was realized for the Ladies' Aid Society, under whose auspices the entertainment was given.

To Advertisers.

We positively will not change display advertisements unless the copy is handed in on Monday. To do so would require the employment of an extra hand to remain idle the entire week save one day. Remember this, and if you are turned down on press day as it is up to you to get here on time.

Very Kind.

We received a grapevine telegram Friday morning stating that the bullet fired into The Record office, was purely accidental, that it was not done through any disrespect to the editor, and the fellow who did it was much surprised when he realized he had broken our glass. We appreciate the fellow's kindly feeling for us, but would like to see him astride a rock pile for so badly defacing the handsome building.

The Weather.

So far, this has been the hardest winter in many years, and there is no prospect for a let up. Sunday morning was the coldest of the season. It is the first time in nine years that water in The Record office has frozen. A "banked" fire protected the engine, but the water bucket was frozen solid. We have seen the time (or times) when the finding of ice on the water bucket "the next morning" would have been hailed with delight, but circumstances alter cases, you know.

Grew Too Careless.

A number of the boys let their enthusiasm carry them too far Thursday night, and the result is great destruction to some of the best property about the Public Square. In the corner of the handsome Citizens National Bank building are from twenty to forty large holes, made by pistol balls. A dozen or more holes were made in Batson's new shed, while the court house, post office building and other property were perforated in many places. There were six or eight hundred shots fired on the Public Square, to say nothing of numerous bombs, etc. While we do not believe this was done maliciously, yet the damage has been done, and some of the handsomest property in town not only badly defaced but seriously injured. If the boys want to do the right thing, they will pay for the repairs.

WATER TURNED ON.

The Pipes Filled and All Proves Entirely Satisfactory. Great Rejoicing By the People.

The happiest people we ever saw were gathered on the Public Square Tuesday when the water was turned into the pipes and the water works system tested. There were delays, of course, but these have been remedied, and the plant is virtually complete. The lake has filled with remarkable rapidity, water now standing up to the second gauge. The filter is a complete success, the water coming through as clear as crystal. One or two breaks occurred in the pipes, but this always happens in installing a system, the cast iron having been cracked in handling. A gauge has been placed in J. A. Beazley & Co's store, where the pressure can always be seen. In case of fire, a telephone message brings double pressure within three minutes time.

One thousand feet of the best hose will arrive this week, and will be kept in a wagon made especially for the purpose. It is the latest pattern, having the new device for coupling, which does away with the old screw system. As it cost seventy cents a foot, you can see it is o. k. The old chemical engine will be kept in its accustomed place, charged and ready for use. This, with the splendid water works will give Lancaster better protection from fire than any small town has. It is a good idea to keep the chemical engine and, by the way, a still better idea to keep it freshly charged. It costs but a trifle, and the town can well afford to keep it in shape.

Some fellow sounded the fire alarm when the water was turned on, but the people had an idea of what was up and few "bit."

Next Sunday will be C W B M day at Christian church. Special sermon and music. Services begin at 10:45 a. m.

Our good sister city, Stanford, kindly loaned the City Council two sections of hose to test the water power, which favor is duly appreciated.

At the Memorial Methodist church, Dr E H Pearce will discuss the following subjects: At 11 a. m., "Lessons of a Year," at 7 p. m., "Profit and Loss."

Mr J D Turner has accepted the position of watchman at Curley's large distilleries at Camp Nelson, and left this week to enter upon his work.

The Record can boast of a subscriber who has paid up until 1909. If the remainder would only pay up to 1905, we would be enabled to send them a much better paper this year.

With the Flowers in Springtime.

We will wager two acres and a mule against an old straw hat that ground will be broken on the hotel lot, next spring, for a three-story building. A hotel? Not on your tinfoil, but a business house that will surpass any similar enterprise in Central Kentucky.

A Popular Colored Man.

Alex. Miller, the polite and accommodating proprietor of the Danville stage line, was married last Wednesday to Mrs Bessie B Carr, of Harrodsburg. No colored man in central Kentucky stands higher in the estimation of the people than does Alex Miller. We wish him much happiness.

About Sidewalks.

During the miserable weather, all kind of kicking is being made on the lack of more good sidewalks. The public should remember that the City Council worked faithfully to remedy this evil, but had all kind of obstacles placed in their way by some people who didn't like the idea of having to pay a few dollars for construction. Some even hired lawyers who have fought the improvement with might and main. The case came up before Judge Saufley, but for some reason it was continued. It will now be tested before the Hon. Con Bell, and we trust he will settle the matter early in his first court. The statement that a town cannot enforce such ordinances is the merest rot, and only causes delay in the town obtaining what every other city half its size has.

The Eighth Wonder of the World.

A "Get-Rich-Quick" concern which did not take money out of Lancaster is, indeed, the eighth wonder of the world. What puzzles us is why the promoters missed the town which is known far and wide for going into every foreign scheme offered. A turf investment scheme used many local papers in Kentucky to tell how they could take your money and send you ten dollars for every one you sent them. The post office department soon issued a fraud order and the "firm" struck for tall timber. There is no country town but what needs every penny kept within its limits, and that ungovernable desire to gamble in foreign fakes is the sole cause of so many Kentucky towns lagging at the rear of the procession. There is a move on foot right now to establish a large business enterprise in this city, and, from present outlook, the promoters will be compelled to secure assistance from another state. Now, wouldn't that jar you? If all the money made off Lancaster people and shipped away had been retained where home people would have another chance at it, the town would not only be up with her northern sisters but ahead of any of class.

GARRARD COUNTY EXHIBIT.

Our County to Have Unusually Attractive and Interesting Display at Fair.

When Lancaster voted several thousand dollars a year ago for building a reservoir within a mile and a half of the town to give the place waterworks, the citizens little thought the building of this reservoir would disclose a rich vein of clay. While Mr W U Grider, field representative of the Mineral Committee of the Kentucky Exhibit Association was here in October, he visited this reservoir, now just completed, and discovered a bed of clay about five feet deep already exposed. It lies over limestone. He got a sack of this clay and shipped to Prof C J Norwood, at Lexington, for a test. While at the reservoir Mr Grider also arranged for an exhibit of the hard blue limestone used in the dam taken from a quarry near by. It is in a strata from two to fourteen inches thick. Other stone exhibits secured show samples from a ledge of gray limestone with a number of very small, bright, sparkling specks, located on Dix river, eight miles from Lancaster on the Lexington pike. This ledge is six to eight feet thick and extends some distance along the river. On the same river between Lancaster and Danville, on the farm of Col J W Miller, Mr Grider found a high cliff of rock in ledges of one to eight feet thick—a very hard light gray stone. It is the purpose of Mr Grider to show these Garrard limestone in a pyramid built up with gray and blue alternating. There are several different mineral waters in the county, samples of which Mr John M Farra, secretary of the Lancaster Commercial Club, has promised to ship to the Exhibit Association.

Garrard was the banner county of Kentucky, in hemp raising in 1902 and, while the hemp crop was a failure in many sections of the State in 1903, it is far from a failure in this county; therefore, the Exhibit Association is looking to Garrard for a display of this fibre. It is to be furnished by Messrs. Banks Hudson, H. A. B. Marksbury and James M. Denny.

Of course, other agricultural products are to be shown, such as corn, wheat and tobacco, but the county is depending chiefly on its hemp display to attract attention. Mr J C Thompson has been very successful in the culture of ginseng and will make an attractive exhibit of its several stages. The Garrard Graded School, thanks to the efforts of Prof J E Manix, will be represented in the educational display from Kentucky, and Mr E H Fox, of Danville, the Official World's Fair Photographer for Garrard county, in addition to many other interesting views, has a large picture of this school and it is to occupy a burnt wood frame at the Fair made by Miss Lettie McRoberts, whose work in pyrography has attracted a great deal of attention. Another interesting exhibit from the county in the Kentucky Building will be hand-painted china and an oil painting from Miss Sallie Elkin, of Lancaster, together with an oil painting from Miss Anne Chenault Wallace, of Point Leavelle. The two old oil paintings of Christopher Columbus and Amerigo Vespucci hanging on the walls of the county clerk's office, are to be reframed and turned over to the local World's Fair Committee. They were given to the county sixty years ago by Commodore Cicero Price, a native of the county, in the United States Navy. J M Farra has offered the Association an old Seth Thomas clock for the Colonial room in the Kentucky Building.

Important.

Saturday is the Annual election of officers of the W. C. T. U. All the members are urged to be present.

Cured After Suffering 10 Years.

B F Hare, Supt Miami Cycle & Mfg Co., Middletown, O., suffered for ten years with dyspepsia. He spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and with doctors without receiving any permanent benefit. He says, "One night while feeling exceptionally bad I was about to throw down the evening paper when I saw an item in the paper regarding the merits of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. I concluded to try it and while I had no faith in it I felt better after the second dose. After using two bottles I am stronger and better than I have been in years, and I recommend Kodol Dyspepsia Cure to my friends and acquaintances suffering from stomach trouble." Mrs B Ramsey, Jr., is anticipating the pleasure of having as her guest during the month of January, Miss Violet Preston, of Louisville, a most welcome visitor for all who know her.

We had a most pleasant visit from Mr E H Smith, of El Dorado, Arkansas, this week. Mr Smith was on a visit to his father-in-law, Mr Solon B. Henry, and spent several days in Lancaster. He is cashier of a bank in El Dorado, and one of that thriving city's leading citizens. Mr Smith is full of push and enterprise, and is always ready to join in any movement for the betterment and promotion of his town. Such men are needed not only in Lancaster, but every town in Kentucky. A few such hustlers would soon bring the old state to the front.

OBITUARY.

In memory of Stephen Marshbanks. A dear father breathed his last on the evening of the 22nd ult. After a life of 70 years, he passed peacefully to rest with his loved ones gone before. He leaves ten children to mourn the loss of a loving father. He was a kind neighbor and beloved by all. He was ever ready to do a favor, and it is, indeed, a sad home without him. But the Lord knew best and called him to his reward. Maggie Highland, Manse, Ky.

IN MEMORIAM.

On the evening of Dec. 15th, at six o'clock, the veil which divides the present from the life eternal was drawn aside and the immortal spirit of our loved one, James L McCauley, fell asleep in Jesus. He was born and raised within ten miles of where he lived and died. He was elected assessor of this county. He was married in 1872 to Elizabeth Schooler. They were blessed with three intelligent and obedient daughters, who were raised in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, and as was truly said by his pastor, they received a heritage of integrity and honor. Mr McCauley was in Lancaster on Wednesday and caught the cold which resulted in his death the following Tuesday. He bore the severest suffering with great patience. He was a friend to the orphan and widow, and was sought as a peace maker, and helped many over the rough places of life. One of his leading traits was earnestness; he was an active and prosperous business man, and is said to have been one of the most popular men in the county. He was always ready to forgive an injury and had not an enemy. He was a devoted husband, and loving father. When the Angels of Mercy bore him away from his bed of suffering he met death triumphantly, and said he feared not to die, dying in perfect peace and full exercise of all his faculties. His funeral was held at the Christian church, conducted by Elder Tindler, in a touching and impressive manner. He was laid to rest in the Lancaster Cemetery, followed by a large crowd of loving and sorrowing friends.

A tribute of love was shown by the many and beautiful flowers strewn upon his grave. His wife and daughters have the sympathy of every one. May they be comforted by the love of Christ, and the hope of meeting his spirit in the better land where the loving links which bound them together shall never be broken. They sorrow not as those who have no hope, for, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." FRANKIE.

Some wives spend a lot of time regretting the fact that they are so much better than their husbands.

HORTICULTURE

EFFECTIVE HOTBED.

Minnesota Gardener Describes a Heating Plan That Has Proved Quite Satisfactory.

The hotbed that must depend on fermenting manure for its heat is not always satisfactory. Not only is it difficult to regulate the temperature, but the heat sometimes becomes extinct at a stage when the plants are sorely in need of it.

I made an excavation five or six feet on the surface, and about a foot deep. Lengthwise along this space were laid three rows of tiling, one along the center, and one about a foot from each side. The tiles were four inches in side measure, and one foot long. These were placed end to end, so as to fit closely.

HEATED HOTBED COMPLETE.

ly, and earth was pressed around them so as to hold every piece exactly in place. Then the excavation was filled with rich soil until level with the surface, excepting at the ends the tiles were left bare for a few inches. The board frame, 5 by 15 feet, was next put in place, so as to leave six inches of each row of tiles projecting beyond the ends of the frame, as shown in smaller cut.

At the east ends of the bed, a hole was dug three by four feet on surface, and two feet deep. In this hole a crude fireplace was made of loose brick, and the flue was connected with the three ends of projecting tile. At the west end of the frame a brick chamber was made into which the three tiles entered, giving them a common flue for outlet. The top of this chamber was closely covered, excepting a six-inch circular hole, into which a single length of stovepipe was fitted. A sloping door was hung over the fireplace cavity to keep out rain; and the earth was raised high enough to prevent surface water from running into the hole. Soil was banked about the frame and the glass sash put in place. It took six sashes 29 by 60 inches, to cover the frame, and I happened to have on hand six old storm window sashes of that size. Of course the sashes sloped to the south in the usual way.

When fire was kindled in the fireplace the smoke came freely from the stovepipe. The tiles were covered with soil to a depth of about six inches. With a good fire, I could quickly warm up the earth on the coldest days of spring. And when once well heated the earth and tiling held the heat for a long time, provided the draft was closed. Unlike beds heated with manure, the heat supply could here be regulated to suit the demand of the prevailing weather.—C. L. Hill, in Farm and Home.

SOIL FOR POTATOES.

It should be light so that it will offer but slight resistance to rapid growth.

Potatoes may be grown on a variety of soils; but the most important factor in growing them successfully, after the proper selection of tubers for seeding, is the selection of the kind of soil best adapted to them. Soil in pulverized state, so light that it will offer but small resistance to the growth of the tubers, should be selected. The ground should be well drained, and have a supply of organic matter sufficient to keep it in a state of moisture, which is necessary to the normal growth of the potato. Plowing under green crops and adding well rooted farm manures will render almost any kind of soil suitable for growing this crop; while newly cleared lands are adapted to some varieties of the potato; as the soil is in a mechanically favorable state to its growth, and has a liberal supply of organic matter, which continues still cultivation exhausts it from the soil. The mechanical condition of the soil is of much importance; as its natural fertility and artificial fertilization will, to a great extent, supply the deficiency of this organic quality, if the soil is in a condition to furnish the necessary moisture. Experience in growing this crop teaches that one year, or two years at most, is as long as this crop should be without change grown on a piece of ground, because the plant food suited to the potato by that time becomes exhausted, and then the germs of disease from the scabby tubers will remain in the soil, and they must be starved out by changing the crop to that which will not support these particular germs.—Frank Monroe Beverly, in Epitome.

Pearl Fudding.

Cook together four or five minutes one-half cupful of sugar and four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch in a pint of sweet milk. Stir in one cupful of cream (the fresh, if procurable) and flavor with vanilla. Add the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and pour into a ring mold. When time to serve all the center with chilled and whipped cream.—Boston Globe.

Care of Horses in Spring.

Galled shoulders are very common in the spring when the horses are first put to work, and are easier prevented than cured, especially if the animal is kept at work. It is very important to see that the collars and harness fit properly; then the collars should be kept clean; keeping the collars well oiled will be a help. Wash the shoulders at noon and night with soft water after removing the harness. When the teams are stopped for a rest in the field, pull the collars away from the horses' shoulders; in this way galls may generally be prevented.—Midland Farmer.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest, and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer climate, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all drug stores.

ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

FARM WINTER CHORES.

My good wife often tells me, that "women's work is never done. And you men folks only putter 'round the place from sun to sun." But I reckon that us farmers always find a chore or two. When the days are short, and nights are long, around the barn to do. Don't you know there seems no end to fixin' here an' cleanin' there. If you wish the stock to show in spring they've had a little care. An' I've learned it pays good interest in springtime, don't you know. You jes' brush the cattle with the card, an' do it every day. For you'll find that when the buyer comes around you'll get your pay. Don't forget to overhaul the harrow, mow, plow an' cart. Fix them up ready for business when the trade begins to start. Oh, there's lots o' tools need fixin' 'gainst the comin' day o' need. An' it's now you've got to do it, 'fore the time o' plantin' seed.

CAGE FOR JAILBIRDS.

Constructed for the Purpose of Confining Convicts While Working on Country Roads.

This cage is not intended for wild animals, as might be supposed from its appearance, but is used to confine human beings. The convicts are made to work upon the public highways, and in order to work the roads at any great distance from the county jail

PERIPATETIC JAIL.

It is necessary for the prisoners to camp out, so this steel car was constructed for the purpose of confining the convicts while working in the outlying districts. The cage is twenty feet long by eight feet six inches wide, and is eight feet from floor to roof. It is divided into two compartments; the larger one, for the prisoners, contains twelve bunks, and the smaller one has two bunks for the guards. The whole thing requires six horses to pull it over the country roads.—V. W. Gould, in Strand Magazine.

WIDE TIRE THE THING.

It Acts as a Roller on a Dirt Road and Makes Hauling of Heavy Loads Easy.

As I am a good-road lover, I wish to give my opinion on how to make a road hard and solid so that it will carry the heavy loads better than most roads generally do. In my own experience years ago, I owned only one two-inch tire wagon. Since then I made a three-inch wagon out of old wheels by cutting it down a little lower and had the blacksmith put on three-inch tires, one-half inch thick.

The wonderful effect this has in improving an otherwise worthless farm convenience no one knows unless he has tried it. The wagon now is as good as a new one, and it does not run down as before.

Farmers should be sure to order wide tires when new wheels are needed on old wagons. A three-inch tire will do, but a four-inch is still better. As it acts as a roller on the road, and when once packed the draft is much lighter. This is my experience.—H. F. Jahnke, in Farmers' Voice.

Pear Growing Popular.

Every class of fruit has its day with the amateur. Just now the pear is on the rising tide of popularity and is being boomed by the nursery agent. Can't loads of this delicious fruit are shipped into the north annually, and the home grower who has fruit to sell has no trouble in realizing good prices. If you have rolling land, with good fair drainage and a clay soil, and there are a number of such locations in the central west, you may be safe in trying a few. But for the northern half of the belt or on low black soils, beware. Under such conditions the pear blight has blasted more than one man's hopes and after years of patient care and waiting.—Midland Farmer.

TO SUPPLY THE WORLD

Kentucky Coal Fields Will Be Turned To In Future.

A STRIKING EXHIBIT TO BE MADE

Mineral Committee of Kentucky Exhibit Association Allotted Excellent Space at Exposition in Which to Show the State's Wonderful Resources of This Character—The Display On A Broad Scope.

The space allotted the Kentucky Exhibit Association for the several products and resources in the different exhibit palaces of the St. Louis Exposition is quite as prominently located in the mammoth structures as is the Kentucky Building on the grounds. Starting with the reservation made for the mineral resources in the Mines and Metallurgy Building it is no effort to show how well the State that gave to the world the president of the Exhibition, Hon. David R. Francis, born in Madison county, has been taken care of.

At the west corner of the Mines Building, where crowds coming from the walks around the Grand Basin and from the Restaurant Pavilions will pour in, rests the space in which will be shown the wonderful mineral resources of Kentucky. Here in one spot is three thousand square feet. In addition to this, distributed at intervals through the building, will be duplicate displays of coal, clay, iron, lead and zinc and mineral waters in the various collective exhibits. In the general display, naturally coal is given prominence. A year ago one of the leading operators of the State made the assertion in a paper read before a body of prominent financiers that fifty years from now the coal fields of Great Britain and the coal fields of Pennsylvania would be all but exhausted and that the world must needs turn to the Kentucky fields for its coal supply. This gentleman was no idle dreamer. He spoke of the rich veins in Eastern Kentucky and the rich veins in Western Kentucky. He talked in figures, not in fancies. It will be one of the purposes of the Exhibit Association to prove in its coal exhibit, by geographical maps and charts, and by constantly increasing productions, that the statement is to be borne out by the future.

It is believed, too, that the clay deposits of Kentucky hold in their grasp the coming years of this great industry. What these deposits will bring forth only time can tell, but that they will not be disappointing has been scientifically demonstrated. The same might be said of the State's lead and zinc ores, her asphalt rocks, her materials for limes and cements, her building stones and her lithographic stones. All of these things are to be given due prominence in the Kentucky display.

And petroleum! The Standard Oil company has its fingers on the pulse of this growing infant, and the fact that the Standard Oil company takes time to feel the pulse of its certain to grow rapidly. The Mineral Exhibit Committee of the Association will be able to show oil from the various sands of the state. During the past month there was erected in Lexington by Professor H. Kastle of the State college a refinery especially to get the product from Kentucky's petroleum to show in the state's mineral display. There will be at least fifty different samples displayed in extenso, from the crude form even to the paraffine. One of the unique features of the petroleum display will be a bottle of oil from the first well bored in the United States. This well was situated in Cumberland county, and was struck while boring for salt water. When this well was sunk—in 1829, before oil was heard of in Pennsylvania—the crude oil was put up in bottles by the American Oil company, and sold all over the United States at fifty cents per bottle, eight ounces, as a cure for cuts and bruises and sores of all kinds of man and beast. It was not thought of that time for illuminating purposes.

Another striking mineral exhibit will be massive blocks of onyx, while it is the hope of the committee to be able to get a very fine collection of gems from Elliott county. To all of these things will be added in proportion to their wealth—polishing and scouring materials and molting sands, road materials, barite, fluorspar, corundum, etc., etc. In one corner of the display there will be geographical sections, in another a large geographical map. Much space is also to be devoted to cases with different exhibits. Mineral waters will also be attractively displayed. Eleven of the most noted springs in the state have already agreed to furnish water in bottles with especially designed labels and water to be served on tap, gratis. The water to be given away will be placed in the Kentucky Building, the different springs to alternate in the time of serving.

Former Mayor Charles P. Weaver of Louisville is the chairman of the Mineral Exhibit Committee of the Association; Professor C. J. Norwood of Lexington is the chief counselor thereto, and W. U. Grider of Bowling Green is the field representative.

Minnesota will exhibit, at the World's Fair, a series of photographs of flower vegetable gardens cultivated by the pupils of her public schools.

"WHERE'S MAMMA?"

Mamma is watching her baby from the window of her room and envying the nurse her strength. It often happens that a woman dates a life of invalidism from the birth of her first child. In other cases she has a slow recovery, which shuts her out for a long time from the regular family life.

Mothers who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, find a preparative for maternity express their amazement at the strength it gives, keeping the body healthy, the mind cheerful and making the baby's advent practically painless.

"I cannot say too much for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. S. E. Rose, of Big Otter, Clay Co., W. Va. "I feel it my duty to say to all women who are suffering from female troubles that it is the best medicine on earth that they can use. I am the mother of five children, and have been as high as eight days in the doctor's hands, and never less than two days at any time until the last. Then I had used two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and was only two hours in the hands of the doctor."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a gentle but effective laxative.

Do Not Dose The Stomach.

Our Catarrh by Nature's Own Method—Every Breath of Hyomei Brings Relief.

Nearly every one who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it by drugging the stomach. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would have said the way to cure catarrh would be to have a change of climate; but now with Hyomei you can carry a health giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day soon cure yourself.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs you but $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if one bottle does not cure, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only one that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

R. E. McRoberts has sold a great many Hyomei outfits and the more he sells the more convinced he is perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hyomei does not cure.
